Panel Discussion on India’s role in Global Economy
15th October, 2016

With the growing importance of India’s contribution in the global economy, the Council organized a seminar on India’s role in global economy on 14th October, 2016 in the Board room, IEML. The guest speakers for the event were Mr. Arjun Ram Meghwal, Hon’ble Union Minister of State for Finance; Mr. Bajrang Lal Gupta, leading Economist; and Mr. Gopal Arya. Also present on the occasion were, Mr. D Kumar, Chairman, EPCH; Mr. O P Prahladka, Vice Chairman, EPCH; Mr. Naved Ur Rehman, President, Reception Committee, IHGF Delhi Fair-Autumn 2016; Vice Presidents, Reception Committee, IHGF Delhi Fair-Autumn 2016 - Mr. K K Bhansali and Mrs. Leela Bordia; and Mr. Rakesh Kumar, Executive Director, EPCH.

The Hon’ble Minister of State for Finance spoke about the state of the Indian economy and how growth in Indian economy is driving the entire world towards India. He also spoke about implications of forthcoming Goods and Services Tax (GST) and how the Government is planning to implement the same. GST is going to be one major indirect tax reforms in the country since independence, it is going to be a comprehensive tax levy on manufacturing, savings and consumption of goods and services and is all set to integrate the state economies and boost overall growth. Mr. Meghwal further said that GST would lower the human interface and would ultimately result in ease of business. In order to support GST, a GST network is being created so as to smoothen the process of GST. The Government is planning to have facilitation centres which will help everyone to understand the process & implementation and help in filing of tax returns. He said that Government is working towards employment led growth so that growth in the country results in employment generation and reaches every citizen. He responded to queries of the exporters on GST and assured them that GST is going to benefit all and drive the growth in the country.

Dr. Bajranlal Gupta, being an economist spoke about India’s economic journey over the years and explained how India’s % share in the world GDP which was over 30% in first AD reduced to less than 5% in 1950 and now India’s economic stature is growing again in the world and its share is constantly increasing and is forecasted to be over 20% by 2040. He spoke about India’s demographic dividend i.e. young population, skilled manpower, high saving rates, family structure and biodiversity which are the strengths of India and are going to lead the growth of Indian economy in future. He guarded against the economic inequality and said that the growth has to be holistic and echoed sentiments of the Hon’ble Prime Minister.
Safeguard your Business from Cyber Crime

The magnitude of transactions - the sheer volume makes internet not just an easy tool for information exchange, but also an ideal platform for crimes. Keeping this in mind EPCH organized this insightful seminar with Mr. Samir Dutt, forensic expert, M/s Forensics Guru, as the guest speaker. In his presentation, Mr. Dutt familiarized the participants about how an e-mail or a promising mail meant to defraud can be a cyber-crime. He informed the participants that as per a 2003 McAfee study, the cost incurred due to cybercrime is $100 billion per year. “Today knowledge or information is the currency so we need to be secured and because we live in an accelerated age we are in a need to give instant responses”, he said. 86% of the crimes are not reported because of embarrassment and false arrest, etc. Among other reasons and in most of the cases, banks tend to shift the blame on the public. He also explained that lots of theft cases registered for laptops, I-pads and phones are noticed to widen the risk of cyber-crime because most of them have passwords registered in them already. Mr. Dutt also talked about social engineering as one important aspect of cyber-crime in which people share their information which can be used to hack email ids and do further crimes. Among various precautions that can be taken, he advised not to click on the links which one is not aware of; try and separate internet connection for work and personal use; use one’s own domain; use encryption; and set up standard operating procedures.

Start and Grow a brand for the US Market

International retail strategies expert, Ms. Mercedes Gonzalez, spoke about studying markets and exploring opportunities abroad. In today’s global economy, scaling a brand for international markets, especially the US, is a very feasible strategy, she said, informing the audience that “there never was a better opportunity to export to the US” as compared to today as chain stores there are filled with products that are boring to the consumer. People want something new now. She detailed on the process of getting into the US market as exporters with an emphasis on buyers’ preferences that definitely rest on new products with good quality and promise of on-time delivery, and at a competitive price tag to it. The product to be exported should be what is trending and is supposed to have a ‘fantasy’ attached to it which will be advantageous in social media promotions. “Add a brand signature” that holds utmost importance, she emphasized. Towards the end of the seminar, Ms. Gonzalez gave insights into how the distribution center and the factoring bank hold key importance in the process of getting into the US market. Ms. Gonzalez has worked with some of the most important buying offices and has helped to open or restructure stores in US and abroad.

Spring Summer 2018 Forecasts &
Trends Pick on Natural Fiber

Mr. P J Aranador, Filipino international lifestyle designer and Ms. Anna India Legaspi, Heritage Arts & Crafts, Philippines, illustrate their presentations with product samples.

Conducted with an insightful presentation by Mr. P J Aranador, Filipino international lifestyle designer, the first session in this seminar guided participants towards tendencies for the coming season in key colours, core direction, essential moods, relevant materials, dominant patterns and significant images in design-led crafts. With focus on handmade products with eco-friendly attributes, Mr. Aranador elaborated on material manipulation and innovation that are set to dominate trends in the future. He also spoke on how designers and consumers are exploring the world for collaborating ethnicities and cultures, paving way for dissolution of borders and limits. He informed that the ambassador of Philippines to India also shares the message that craft and tourism are related. Citing busy lifestyles and people taking pride in having almost the entire world within reach, he said, “today we do breakfast in Tokyo, lunch in Delhi and dinner in Paris, but we must stop this glorification of ‘busy’ and embrace the slow life, the slow food and hence the slow fashion. The purpose will be fulfilled only with inclusion of more and more eco-friendly and ethical products in the industry.” On colours, he indicated that the driving tones for the upcoming season will be different enigmatic shades like baked coral, sun burnt, golden sand, dark ginger, rose madder and indigo. He summed up his presentation with emphasis on hand woven and handcrafted products which India is very famous for.

Aimed at development of natural fiber products as per trends in the international markets, the second session by famous Filipino fiber and handloom expert, Ms. Anna India A. de la Cruz, featured the description of weaving traditions in Philippines as she explained, how embracing natural fiber also meant embracing one’s culture & heritage. She detailed about pineapple and banana fibers and their traditional fiber extraction process for weaving. Explaining how pina fiber articles last for almost a century, she spoke about the origin of these fibers and how some were actually introduced due to colonization. Her presentation included interesting examples of lifestyle products made from natural fibers like shoes, bags, apparel, etc. as well as her paintings on pina. This session concluded with the participants taking a closer look at product samples drawn from Ms. Anna’s personal collection.

How to Overcome Barriers with Negotiation Skills

Communication in negotiation scenarios is the means by which negotiators achieve objectives, build relationships, and resolve disputes. Communication becomes even more important when negotiating counterparts are from different cultures. In his presentation, Mr. Rajeev Tyagi, Senior Vice President, Arielle Sourcing, guided participants about aspects of communication in business like knowing self, knowing the recipient of communication, time barriers and solutions, language barriers and solutions, stake holders, internal and external customers, role sanctity and collective success rather than individual success to knowing the product, marketing the product with a story, knowing the supply chain & the value chain from cost/ margin perspective, volume price equation, right sourcing, hidden costs, etc.

Mr. Tyagi further discussed about the importance of e-mail.
as an important tool to negotiate and communicate with buyers. However, he warned that one should keep time zones in mind while replying. Also, at times, one may not have any answer for the buyer, but they should at least reply with a request for more time. He also explained that language barriers can be removed through interpreter or any other source. On negotiation skills, Mr. Tyagi informed that it is an art as old as the market itself. It has its own impact on the buyer-seller relationship. Negotiation is an unavoidable part of the business, be it small or big so one should never carry pre-conceived notions or weightage of past experiences while negotiating. While having a negotiation on the table, one must be ready with all the calculations. "It’s not about just using these skills, it’s about how correctly we use these skills" he emphasized.

How Internet is driving the Future of Commerce

e-Commerce is evolving swiftly and becoming the principal means by which transactions are conducted. In times to come, it is expected to facilitate more effective marketing of products & services and enable manufacturers, exporters, buying houses, etc. to be more competitive on the world stage. Mr. Bhartia, Senior VP, Strategic Partnership, Alibaba Group India, through his presentation, pointed out possibilities of business through internet. "Offline will never get replaced but online for sure has its own market", he explained. He spoke about the increasing importance and usage of internet. In China, the online market has grown from 1.1% in 2008 to 11.5% in 2016. In India, the number of online shoppers is increasing day by day from 9% in 2013 to 11% in 2015 and is poised to grow at 36% by 2020. He also cited the reasons why internet in India is changing the way people shop. He also discussed the key drivers, giving examples like population, rise in living standards, competitive pricing, increased usage of online classified sites, more number of second-hand product range, etc. Mr. Bharita also mentioned about factors to be kept in mind while trading online, like providing on-time delivery, quick reply and maintaining genuineness of products while keeping a track of trends. Mr. Vinay Bhartia is actively working with key stakeholders of Cross Border Trade in India like Associations, Logistics companies, Banking & Finance companies to create and provide assistance, value and solutions to the members of Alibaba – SME's to help them grow their exports & business.

Goods and Services Tax (GST) - Implications for the Handicrafts Sector

This seminar aimed at enlightening the participants on the implications of the GST on handicrafts sector and addressed queries of exporters. Mr. Deepak Bajoria, D K Bajoria & Associates and Mr. B K Verma, Executive Partner, Lakshmikumaran & Sridharan began the session by defining the Goods and Services Tax followed by an elaborate explanation of its features. The guest speakers discussed the taxes to be sub-summed and taxes to be not sub-summed into CGST & SGST. Throwing light on the benefits of the tax, the speakers informed that there will be many benefits from GST including common & unified national market, removal of barriers of trade, equitable transport, improved compliance resulting in reduced overall tax ratings, etc. These are necessary because if we look at the report by the World Bank, there are many issues like delays due to road blocks, tolls and other stoppage, freight time, logistic costs, etc. They are expected to be history after this magical law. GST may affect our GDP as well.
